

PAULA RAE GIBSON AT ROLLO GALLERY, LONDON

Paula Rae Gibson, 'Is This About Me or You'
Unique edition, 40 x 30 in

Paula Rae Gibson's upcoming exhibition 'Maybe Too Nude' will investigate the use of the female body raising questions about the role of the female as artist and model, object and subject. Sexy sepia images of the body inscribed with hand written texts powerfully communicate Gibson's personal experiences of desire and loss. Chemically treating her images so that they become damaged in the process of developing them, the body appears to dissolve into the paper.

This unique process creates images with a painterly aesthetic, highly evocative of a past age, in direct opposition to the current trend of instant digital art. The results are ephemeral and haunting unique photographs, laced with an unnerving surrealist edge.

Paula Rae Gibson is a self-taught singer and video artist as well as photographer. Signed to Babel Label and Jazz 33, Gibson has two music albums; 'No More Tip Toes' and forthcoming 'Maybe Too Nude', the release of which will coincide with the exhibition at ROLLO. Gibson will also be performing her album at a happening at ROLLO contemporary art during the exhibition and will be performing at the Vortex jazz club whilst projecting her video art over her body as she sings. Gibson's work in film; writing and acting in 'What Are You Doing Forever' gained critical acclaim touring US film festival TFFC. Her photography book, 'Diary of a Love Addict', was nominated for the 'Deutscher Fotobuchpreis 2007'. Her second book 'I'll Always Walk Away' was published last year. Gibson's photography is currently on show in Germany and an exhibition in the US is being planned.
